

QUESTIONS FOR POTENTIAL MEMBERS OF THE NEXT EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT

Consumer Affairs
Connectivity
Mobility
Brands & Advertising

CONSUMER CHOICE CENTER

Name: Pirkko Vihko
Party: European People's Party
Country: Finland

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Pirkko Vihko

Party: European People's Party

Country: Finland

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: I agree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: I agree.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: I agree.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I agree.

Name: Kimmo Sasi
Party: kokoomus
Country: Finland

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: I disagree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: I agree.

Name: Kimmo Sasi

Party: kokoomus

Country: Finland

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: I disagree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: I disagree.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I agree.

Name: Claudia Gamon

Party: NEOS

Country: Austria

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: I agree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Claudia Gamon

Party: NEOS

Country: Austria

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: I disagree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: No opinion.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: No opinion

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: No opinion.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Verena Wester
Party: AfD
Country: Germany

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: I agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: Strongly disagree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Verena Wester

Party: AfD

Country: Germany

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: Strongly disagree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: No opinion.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Inger Staahl
Jensen

Party: Socialistisk
Folkeparti

Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: I agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Inger Staahl Jensen
Party: Socialistisk Folkeparti
Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: Strongly disagree.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: I disagree.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I agree.

Name: Bo Vesterlund

Party: Socialistisk
Folkeparti

Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: I agree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: I agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: I agree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: No opinion.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: I agree.

Name: Bo Vesterlund
Party: Socialistisk Folkeparti
Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: I agree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: I agree.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I agree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: No opinion.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: No opinion

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I agree

Name: Annemette Schønberg Johnsen

Party: Socialistisk Folkeparti

Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: I agree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Annemette Schønberg Johnsen

Party: Socialistisk Folkeparti

Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I agree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: I agree.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I agree

Name: Frederik Aagaard
Party: Radikale Venstre
Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: I agree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Frederik Aagaard

Party: Radikale Venstre

Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: No opinion.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I agree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: No opinion.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: No opinion

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: No opinion

Name: Karina Rohr
Sørensen

Party: Folkebevægelsen
mod EU

Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: Strongly disagree.

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: I agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: Strongly disagree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: I disagree.

Name: Karina Rohr Sørensen
Party: Folkebevægelsen mod EU
Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: I agree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: Strongly disagree.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: Strongly disagree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: Strongly disagree.

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: Strongly disagree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: No opinion

Name: Susan Kjeldgaard

Party: Alternativet

Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: .No opinion

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: I agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: I agree.

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Susan Kjeldgaard

Party: Alternativet

Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: I agree.

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: No opinion

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: No opinion

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: No opinion.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I agree

Name: Kim Pagels

Party: Radikale Venstre

Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: .I agree

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: No opinion

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: I agree.

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: I agree.

Name: Kim Pagels
Party: Radikale Venstre
Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: No opinion

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: No opinion

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I agree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: I agree

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: No opinion

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I agree

Name: Eva Borchorst
Mejnertz

Party: Radikale Venstre

Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: .I disagree

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: I agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: I agree

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: No opinion

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Eva Borchorst Mejnertz

Party: Radikale Venstre

Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: I agree

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: I agree

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I agree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: I disagree

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: No opinion

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I agree

Name: Dina Raabjerg
Party: Det Konservative
Folkeparti
Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: .I agree

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: I agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: I agree

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: I agree

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Name: Dina Raabjerg
Party: Det Konservative Folkeparti
Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: No opinion

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: I disagree

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I agree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: Strongly disagree

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I disagree

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I agree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: No opinion

Name: Mathias von
Jessen

Party: Radikale Venstre

Country: Denmark

Consumer Affairs

Question: There should be minimal Government intervention in the choices that adults can make about buying products and services that are legal.

Answer: .I agree

Question: In a democracy, the government should protect freedom of choice for consumers.

Answer: Strongly agree.

Question: It's acceptable for the Government to introduce regulation that limits the personal choice of an adult, provided that there is sufficient evidence it's for the greater good of society.

Answer: I agree

Connectivity

Question: A European Digital Single market without digital borders between member states is necessary in order to increase internet connections and lower consumer prices for telecommunication and internet in the EU.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Europe needs to be aware of massive risks for European consumers' privacy intrusions caused by technology and telecommunications companies coming from authoritarian countries like China.

Answer: I agree.

Name: Matthias von Jessen

Party: Radikale Venstre

Country: Denmark

Mobility

Question: Is it acceptable that banning diesel cars now, means that consumers will pay the financial cost for this change in regulation, rather than the government which initially incentivized consumers to buy Diesel cars?

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Governments should avoid intervening with these newer businesses where possible, so that consumers have the greatest possible choice of services.

Answer: I agree

Question: A wide choice for consumers should be the main factor that defines whether a service in a competitive market succeeds or fails.

Answer: I agree

Question: Europe needs to adopt its rules for anonymized data collection in order to foster the development of autonomous vehicles on European roads.

Answer: No opinion

Brands & Advertising

Question: Brands allow consumers to choose from different alternatives and provide consumers with important product information. Limiting brands' availability to communicate with consumers is a dangerous precedent in a free society.

Answer: I agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical purposes.

Answer: Strongly agree

Question: Cannabis should be legalized for medical and recreational purposes.

Answer: I agree

Question: Policies around chemicals need to be driven by scientific evidence and not popular pressure. Political decisions should always be based on facts and not fears.

Answer: I disagree.

Question: If it is legal to buy cigarettes and tobacco in a country, then it should also be legal to buy e-cigarettes.

Answer: I disagree